Hearing

Nature of Hearing and its Disorders

Normal Auditory Systems

Identification of hearing loss in children and young adults using measures of transient otoacoustic emission reproducibility. Glattke, T. J., Pafitis, I. A., Cummiskey, C., & Herer, G. R. November 1995, 71–86.

Auditory and Other Otic Pathologies

Audiologic findings in hyperacusic and nonhyperacusic subjects. Brandy, W. T., & Lynn, J. M. March 1995, 46–51.
Comparison of 1000-Hz toneburst and click stimuli in otoneurologic ABR. Campbell, K. C. M., & Brady, B. A. July 1995, 55–60.
Modality specificity as a criterion for diagnosing central auditory processing disorders. McFarland, D. J., & Cacace, A. T. November 1995, 36–48.
Preserved hearing following vestibular schwannoma surgery: Audiological findings. Bauch, C. D., Olsen, W. O., Beatty, C. W., & Ebersold, M. J. November 1995, 59–66.
Testing balance function in Spanish-speaking patients: Guidelines for non-Spanish-speaking clinicians. Newman-Ryan, J., Northrup, B. D., & Villarreal-Emery, C. July 1995, 15–23.
Three commonly asked questions about central auditory processing disorders: Management. Musiek, F. E., & Chermak, G. D. March 1995, 15–18.

Hearing Loss and Deafness

Automated infant hearing screening using the ABR: Development and validation. Herrmann, B. S., Thornton, A. R., & Joseph, J. M. July 1995, 6–14.
Comparison of 1000-Hz toneburst and click stimuli in otoneurologic ABR. Campbell, K. C. M., & Brady, B. A. July 1995, 55–60.
Identification of hearing loss in children and young adults using measures of transient otoacoustic emission reproducibility. Glattke, T. J., Pafitis, I. A., Cummiskey, C., & Herer, G. R. November 1995, 71–86.
Mitochondria and risk for deafness. Hutchin, T. P., & Cortopassi, G. A. March 1995, 12–14.
Older women and hearing. Garstecki, D. C., & Erler, S. F. July 1995, 41–46.
Preserved hearing following vestibular schwannoma surgery: Audiological findings. Bauch, C. D., Olsen, W. O., Beatty, C. W., & Ebersold, M. J. November 1995, 59–66.
Three commonly asked questions about central auditory processing disorders: Management. Musiek, F. E., & Chermak, G. D. March 1995, 15–18.

Assessment of Hearing

Psychoacoustics

Modality specificity as a criterion for diagnosing central auditory processing disorders. McFarland, D. J., & Cacace, A. T. November 1995, 36–48.

Acoustical Instruments, Measurements, and Standards

Automated infant hearing screening using the ABR: Development and validation. Herrmann, B. S., Thornton, A. R., & Joseph, J. M. July 1995, 6–14.

Screening

Automated infant hearing screening using the ABR: Development and validation. Herrmann, B. S., Thornton, A. R., & Joseph, J. M. July 1995, 6–14.
Identification of hearing loss in children and young adults using measures of transient otoacoustic emission reproducibility. Glattke, T. J., Pafitis, I. A., Cummiskey, C., & Herer, G. R. November 1995, 71–86.

Diagnostic Audiology—General

Audiologic practices: What is popular versus what is supported by evidence. Wiley, T. L., Stoppenbach, D. T., Feldhake, L. J., Moss, K. A., & Thordardottir, E. T. March 1995, 26–34.
Modality specificity as a criterion for diagnosing central auditory processing disorders. McFarland, D. J., & Cacace, A. T. November 1995, 36–48.

Specific Diagnostic Techniques and Approaches

Comparison of 1000-Hz toneburst and click stimuli in otoneurologic ABR. Campbell, K. C. M., & Brady, B. A. July 1995, 55–60.

Acoustic Immittance

Audiologic findings in hyperacusic and nonhyperacusic subjects. Brandy, W. T., & Lynn, J. M. March 1995, 46–51.

Preserved hearing following vestibular schwannoma surgery: Audiological findings. Bauch, C. D., Olsen, W. O., Beatty, C. W., & Ebersold, M. J. November 1995, 59–66.

Behavioral

Audiologic findings in hyperacusic and nonhyperacusic subjects. Brandy, W. T., & Lynn, J. M. March 1995, 46–51.

Audiologic practices: What is popular versus what is supported by evidence. Wiley, T. L., Stoppenbach, D. T., Feldhake, L. J., Moss, K. A., & Thordardottir, E. T. March 1995, 26–34.

Modality specificity as a criterion for diagnosing central auditory processing disorders. McFarland, D. J., & Cacace, A. T. November 1995, 36–48.

Preserved hearing following vestibular schwannoma surgery: Audiological findings. Bauch, C. D., Olsen, W. O., Beatty, C. W., & Ebersold, M. J. November 1995, 59–68.

Electrophysiologic

Automated infant hearing screening using the ABR: Development and validation. Herrmann, B. S., Thornton, A. R., & Joseph, J. M. July 1995, 6–14.

Comparison of 1000-Hz toneburst and click stimuli in otoneurologic ABR. Campbell, K. C. M., & Brady, B. A. July 1995, 55–60.

Preserved hearing following vestibular schwannoma surgery: Audiological findings. Bauch, C. D., Olsen, W. O., Beatty, C. W., & Ebersold, M. J. November 1995, 59–68.

Testing balance function in Spanish-speaking patients: Guidelines for non-Spanish-speaking clinicians. Newman-Ryan, J., Northrup, B. D., & Villarreal-Emery, C. July 1995, 15–23.

Pediatric

Identification of hearing loss in children and young adults using measures of transient otoacoustic emission reproducibility. Glattke, T. J., Pafitis, I. A., Cummiskey, C., & Herer, G. R. November 1995, 71–86.

Speech

Audiologic practices: What is popular versus what is supported by evidence. Wiley, T. L., Stoppenbach, D. T., Feldhake, L. J., Moss, K. A., & Thordardottir, E. T. March 1995, 26–34.

Masking

Audiologic practices: What is popular versus what is supported by evidence. Wiley, T. L., Stoppenbach, D. T., Feldhake, L. J., Moss, K. A., & Thordardottir, E. T. March 1995, 26–34.

Otoacoustic Emissions

Identification of hearing loss in children and young adults using measures of transient otoacoustic emission reproducibility. Glattke, T. J., Pafitis, I. A., Cummiskey, C., & Herer, G. R. November 1995, 71–86.

Intervention

Habilitation, Rehabilitation, and Education

An introduction to neural networks for hearing aid noise recognition. Kim, J. W., & Tyler, R. S. November 1995, 20–31.

Analysis of view angle used in speechreading training of sentences. Bauman, S. L., & Hambrecht, G. November 1995, 67–70.

Three commonly asked questions about central auditory processing disorders: Management. Musiek, F. E., & Chermak, G. D. March 1995, 15–18.

Hearing Aids and Other Prostheses

An introduction to neural networks for hearing aid noise recognition. Kim, J. W., & Tyler, R. S. November 1995, 20–31.

Comparison of the multipeak and spectral peak speech coding strategies of the Nucleus™ 22-channel cochlear implant system. Holden, L. K., Skinner, M. W., Holden, T. A., & Binzer, S. M. November 1995, 49–54.

Comparison of the normal and noise suppression settings on the Spectral 22 speech processor of the Nucleus™ 22-channel cochlear implant system. Holden, L. K., Skinner, M. W., & Holden, T. A. November 1995, 55–58.

Impact of "standard" earmold on RECD. Ricketts, T. A., & Bentler, R. A. March 1995, 43–45.

The application of binomial probability theory to paired comparison judgments. Kuk, F. K., & Lau, C. March 1995, 37–42.

Wireless CROS versus transcranial CROS for unilateral hearing loss. Valente, M., Potts, L. G., Valente, M., & Goebel, J. March 1995, 52–59.

ASHA Announces a NEW Product

1994 Sea Island Multicultural Institute: Compilation of Papers

This compilation of papers provides information on how to increase the numbers of racial/ethnic minority students enrolling in and graduating from audiology and speech-language pathology programs and is a starting point for training students to work with multicultural clients. The information could be integrated into professional curricula. Includes discussion in three areas: recruitment and retention, speech-language-hearing disorders, and cultural sensitivity. (1995)
